FAMILY CENTER
NEWS

There are four different types of development milestones for children: 1) physical (large- and fine-motor skills), 2) cognitive (ability to think, learn, and solve problems), 3) social and emotional (understanding of their own and others' emotions), and 4) communication milestones (both linguistic and nonverbal communication).

Playing with your toddler/preschooler and exposing them to quality educational materials every day will help them to meet these milestones so they will enter school "Ready to Learn".
